Lacrosse Makes Appeal Here : Mrs. Mallory Has Rough Road to Tennis Crown

GAME IS BOUND TO GROW WHEN IT IS UNDERSTOOD

Washington Club and University of Maryland Have Only Teams Hereabouts at Present, But It Is a Good Sport for Schoolboys.

BY H. C. BYRD.

LACROSSE, growing in interest among athletes and in the esteem of those who like to watch athletic contests, may be even more popular in this section within the next few years than any other spring sport. In fact, right now, in all probability, a lacrosse game would outdraw a set of track and field competitions, and it is sure to draw even larger crowds as the public understands it in increasing numbers.

Right now lacrosse is in somewhat the situation foot ball was two decades ago—very few persons really understand much about it. They see a game played, a ball thrown, a player knocked off his feet, but as for understanding any of the fine points of the sport they are completely at sea. And no game can become truly popular until its ins and outs are generally known.

Under average conditions lacrosse is not an exceptionally expensive sport and there is no reason why the Washington high schools could not support it. Lacrosse teams and a lacrosse league in the high schools should add much of interest and give many boys opportunities to get into competitive athletics. Anybody can learn to play lacrosse; it is not a difficult game in any sense of the word. Some agility, speed, endurance, ability to wield a stick and intelligence are all that are required of a boy to make good on a lacrosse team, and, if the boy does not possess these qualifications, he should be able to acquire all of them by going out to play.

Popular in Maryland.

Around Washington, the University of Maryland and the newly formed Washington lacrosse club are the only organizations maintaining teams. In Maryland, besides the University of Maryland, Johns Hopkins, Navy and St. John's, among the colleges, and Baltimore Polytechnic Institute and Baltimore City College of the high schools play the game. North of the Mason-Dixon line practically every big university is represented by a team, and in the spring Syracuse, Lehigh, Swarthmore, Penn State, Cornell, Princeton, Harvard and Pennsylvania usually make trips to play Maryland, Hopkins and the Navy.

Catholic University's athletic council plans to get together some time within the next week or two and reach a decision about the foot ball coaching job for next fall. Right now the Brooklanders are at sea as to their plans for the gridiron and undoubtedly desire to get matters straightened out, so that they can begin to lay their lines from the beginning of practice in September. Rumor has connected Billy Martin, former Georgetown end, with the job, but nobody at Brookland could be found who would either affirm or deny that he is being considered for the place.

McFadden, Central High's star man in field events, should make a brilliant performer in the pole vault if he sticks to that event and gives his whole energy to development in it. It would not be surprising to see the Blue and White man do twelve feet next year while a freshman in some college if he discontinues participation in so many different events. Last Saturday he took part in the broad jump, high jump, pole vault, discus throw and javelin; his performances in each of the five events were meritorious, but no athlete can ever do his best in any one thing until he gives almost his whole time to that event, whatever it may be. Just how capable McFadden is may be known by giving just a little consideration to his performances in five events. He pole vaulted 11 feet, high jumped 5 feet 8 inches, broad jumped over 20 feet, threw the javelin 156 feet and the discus around 108. These together constitute quite an afternoon of clever work for a high school boy.

One of the prospects for the Virginia eleven is Adams, who starred at center on the undefeated Yale freshman eleven last season. Adams is a brilliant pivot man, according to reports, and, despite the fact that he weighs well over 200 pounds, is fast and handles himself as if he tipped the scales at many pounds less.

TORONTO VET DEFEATS MARSHALL WHITLATCH

feating C. I. Dunphy of Woodland, by 2 and 1.

Alpheus Winter of Bridgeport, Conn., long a member of the Columbia Country Club, sprung a surprise in the third flight, defeating Robert S. Kampmann of Pine Valley, in the final on the twenty-fourth hole. Sherman Phillips of Bannockburn won the fourth flight, defeating Charles Agnew of Potomac Park, 8 and 6, in the final round.

The tournament was very well run off by the golf committee of the Chevy Chase Club, and from the first day's play in the rain to the last hole of the final round not a hitch was encountered, notwithstanding the huge field which started on the first day.

Yesterday's Summaries.

First flight; semi-final—Marshall Whitlatch, Chevy Chase, defeated W. R. McCallum, Washington, 3 and 2; George S. Lyon, Toronto, defeated John S. McMenamin, Hampton Roads, 4 and 3. Final—Lyon defeated Whitlatch, 5 and 4.

Consolation; semi-final—G. P. Orme, Columbia, defeated W. C. Prentiss, sr., Kirkside, 3 and 1; Donald Woodward, Col., defeated C. A. Fuller, Chevy Chase, 1 up. Final—Woodward defeated Orme, 1 up, in 19 holes.

Second flight; semi-final—A. R. MacKenzie, Ban., defeated B. L. Taylor, Bann., 6 and 4. J. I. Dunphy, Woodland, defeated Frank Coulpson, Toronto, 2 up. Final—MacKenzie defeated Dunphy, 2 and 1.

Consolation; semi-final—Sam Dalzell, Chevy Chase, defeated Harry Coulson, Toronto, 3 and 4; W. R. Tuckerman, Chevy Chase, defeated G. P. James, Col., 1 up. Final—Tuckerman defeated Dalzell, 4 and 3.

Third flight; semi-final—A. Winter, Bridgeport, defeated H. H. Saum, Col., 2 and 1; R. S. Kampmann, Pine Valley, defeated C. B. Hatch, Col., 3 and 2. Final—Winter defeated Kampmann, 1 up in 24 holes.

Consolation; semi-final—Harry Wardman, Col., defeated J. D. Cassels, Chevy Chase, 3 and 4; J. A. White, jr., Bann., defeated C. E. Langley, Col., 7 and 6. Final—Wardman defeated White, 1 up.

Fourth flight; semi-final—Sherman Phillips, Bann., defeated W. S. Elliott, Chevy Chase, 3 and 2; Charles Agnew, Potomac Park, defeated J. E. Baines, Col., 1 up in 19 holes. Final—Phillips defeated Agnew, 8 and 6.

Consolation; semi-final—Harry W. Burr, Wash., defeated H. K. Cornwell, Col., 4 and 2; H. C. Train, Col., won from C. R. Doyle, Col., by default. Final—Burr defeated Train, 1 up.

Guy M. Standifer, the District champion, defeated L. L. Harban of Columbia in the playoff of their tie for the medal in the qualifying round. Standifer had a card of 78, while Harban picked up his ball on the sixteenth hole, conceding Standifer the medal.

Syracuse Wins Thriller.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 20.—Syracuse defeated Cornell in the deciding game for the championship of Northern Intercollegiate Lacrosse League in one of the most spectacular and thrilling games ever played here today, 2 to 0.

Hopkins Beats Swarthmore.

SWARTHMORE, Pa., May 20.—Johns Hopkins today defeated Swarthmore at lacrosse, 6 goals to 5.

Philadelphia has thirty strong semi-professional nines playing twilight games.

TORONTO LACROSSEMEN WILL PLAY GAME HERE

One of the best lacrosse teams of Canada, home of the game, will be seen in action here June 2. Washington Lacrosse Club has booked a contest for that day with the Toronto twelve, a combination that has been setting a dizzy pace for other stickmen in the country to the north. The Canadians, who are to meet several teams in this section, will encounter Mount Washington of Baltimore a day or two before invading Washington.

To prepare for the match with the steller twelve the Washington club has arranged a game with Baltimore City College to be played on the Potomac Park field next Saturday. Several players recently acquired by the local twelve will be used in the engagement.

Washington Lacrosse Club is arranging for the purchase of a six-acre tract between Connecticut and Wisconsin avenues north of Cleveland Park and may construct an athletic plant. The club, which is incorporated, intends to dispose of stock to the amount of $12,000. The sale will begin tomorrow.

LEHIGH TWELVE KEEPS CLEAN SLATE FOR YEAR

BETHLEHEM, Pa., May 20.—Lehigh's lacrosse team today gave the University of Pennsylvania its first defeat in the intercollegiate league, southern division, winning 3 to 1. Lehigh still is undefeated.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 20.—Princeton defeated Rutgers at lacrosse today, 6 to 1.

PLAYERS WHO ARE HELPING BOOST LACROSSE IN CAPITAL

STRAIGHT OFF THE TEE

By W. R. McCallum

"OPEN house" for members of the Congressional Country Club, one of the newest of Washington's golf and country club projects, located just off the Conduit road, will be held today at the club's temporary quarters. The movement today marks the first formal gathering of the club's membership, which includes most of the officialdom of Washington and a number of the city's leading residents.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, president of the club, or Representative Oscar R. Luhring of Indiana, chairman of the board of governors, will address the membership of the club informally at 11:30 this morning, and will outline the present plans of organization and the prospect of making the club the "playground of officialdom" as it has been hailed. During the day a buffet lunch will be served at the clubhouse.

Members of the Washington Newspaper Golf Club will get together at the National Press Club tomorrow night to discuss final plans for the first tournament of the association to be held at the Washington Golf and Country Club next Friday.

Golfers, who played in the Chevy Chase tournament are wondering what they give players up in New England to improve their game. Alpheus Winter, for many years a foremost member of Columbia, who has been located at Bridgeport, Conn., for about three years, played in the Chevy Chase event, which ended yesterday, and won the third flight, defeating a fine player in the finals—Robert S. Kampmann of Pine Valley—after a battle which went twenty-four holes.

Members of the Washington Yale Alumni Association will have an afternoon of sport at the Chevy Chase Club next Thursday. Golf and tennis are on the sport program, to be followed by a dinner in one of the club's private dining rooms at 7:30 o'clock.

George S. Lyon, the Canadian veteran, nearly holed a 2 out of the bunker at the tenth hole, at Chevy Chase, yesterday morning in his match against John McMenamin of Norfolk. His shot out of the bunker hit the cup for a 2, and hung on the lip, laying McMenamin a dead stymie. Lyon calls it his "explosion shot," and McMenamin says he would rather have Lyon play from the fairway than from a bunker.

Members of the Washington Newspaper Golf Club will engage in their first tournament of the season next Friday. The event will be an eighteen-hole medal play handicap affair and some attractive prizes have been put up by local merchants and others. President Harding will start in a four-ball match about 2:30 o'clock. His match will be the last to tee-off.

Chairman Dunn of the handicap committee of the newspaper golf body is anxious to obtain cards of all players in the tourney in order that handicaps may be properly set. The course of the Washington Golf and Country Club will be open to the newspaper players tomorrow and Tuesday for practice.

The next golf event of consequence on the calendar about the District is the annual tournament of the Columbia Country Club which this year will be held in the early summer instead of in the fall. Columbia expects a banner entry list for its event, which starts June 1, and already several players of note from out of Washington have promised to take part.

Donald Woodward and A. R. MacKenzie, the crack pair of players from Columbia, have been challenged to a match at the Pine Valley Club by Guy M. Standifer, District champion, and Robert S. Kampmann, who is a member of the Quaker City Club. The match will be played shortly.

Frank Thompson, the Canadian champion, set a new competitive record for the present Chevy Chase course in his match with Walter R. Tuckermann Friday morning, when he got around in 74, with all putts holed.

The seventeenth hole at Chevy Chase proved a nightmare to many of the players in the tourney just ended. The traps have been placed in such a position that any but a perfect second shot is severely penalized. As a matter of fact very few fours were made on the hole, in comparison with the other two-shot holes on the course.

John McMenamin, the long hitting player from Norfolk, declares he never will play a safe shot in a tournament, no matter how the match stands. McMenamin was on the seventeenth green Friday afternoon in two shots against Guy Standifer, while the latter was in the trap at the left of the green. McMenamin was one up. Standifer got out on the green, and McMenamin said he played safe for his 4 to win the match by 2 and 1, his safety play resulting in his taking three putts and only getting a half. The match was carried to the eighteenth, which both players negotiated in 4.

Donald Woodward learned a lesson in his match with the Canadian veteran, George S. Lyon, Friday morning. Woodward was 4 up standing on the seventh tee and was beaten 4 and 2. Lyon won six straight holes from the victor in the Washington tournament.

Par of the Chevy Chase course when rearrangements are finally completed probably will be one stroke less than at present. The sixth hole is being made into a two-shotter. The present sixth is a three-shotter, with a par of 5.

SOUTHERN GOLF TITLE WON BY MRS. LOWNDES

BIRMINGHAM, May 20.—Mrs. Dosier Lowndes, Atlanta, today won the championship in the Southern Golf Association for women by defeating, in the final round, Miss Rosalie Mayer, Atlanta, on the twenty-seventh green, 11 up and 9 to go.

CHEVY CHASE NETMEN ROUT COLUMBIA TEAM

Chevy Chase Club netmen made a clean sweep against Columbia Country Club on the latter's courts yesterday afternoon in a Washington Tennis Association match, taking all nine contests, six singles and three doubles.

Columbia won only twenty-four games in the nine clashes, all being decided in straight sets. Summaries:

SINGLES.

1—Dudley Morgan (C. C.) defeated E. O. Leech (Col.), 6—2, 6—2.
2—Ballard Moore (C. C.) defeated L. P. McLachlen (Col.), 6—2, 6—2.
3—Arthur Hellen (C. C.) defeated J. L. Wacksmith (Col.), 6—1, 6—0.
4—A. O. Wilson (C. C.) defeated J. M. Haynes (Col.), 6—0, 6—0.
5—Walter Dunlop (C. C.) defeated A. B. Heaton (Col.), 6—1, 6—1.
6—Gen. W. A. Bethel (C. C.) defeated A. Y. Leech, jr. (Col.), 6—1, 6—2.

DOUBLES.

1—Moore and Morgan (C. C.) defeated Leech and Leech (Col.), 6—2, 6—1.
2—Bethel and Coleman Jennings (C. C.) defeated Heaton and Haynes (Col.), 6—3, 6—2.
3—Wilson and Dunlop (C. C.) defeated McLachlen and Wacksmith (Col.), 6—0, 6—2.

MISS RYAN IN FINAL WITH MLLE. LENGLEN

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, May 20.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, world's woman tennis champion, and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of California, will meet tomorrow in the final round of the woman's singles of the international hard court tournament.

Mlle. Lenglen, coming from behind in a hard match with Miss McKane, of England, in the semi-finals to-day, defeated her opponent, 10-8, 6-2.

Miss Ryan earned the right to play in the final by defeating Mme. de Borman of Belgium 6-2, 6-0.

Mlle. Lenglen, playing in the finals of the mixed doubles with her partner, the French boy player, Cochet, defeated J. R. Gilbert and Mrs. Beamish, England, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0.

Cochet, who has shown dashing form throughout the tournament, met Nicholas Mishu, the Rumanian player, in the semi-finals of the men's singles, and won his match, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. Another match in the men's singles today was that between Count de Gomar, Spain, and Borotra, France, the Spaniard winning, 4-6, 8-6, 6-1, 6-0.

Queen Elizabeth Present.

Queen Elizabeth attended the tournament and congratulated both players after the match.

Mlle. Lenglen may abandon tennis after this tournament. She has been complaining throughout the week of a heart affection, especially last night and during the match with Miss McKane this afternoon. Her father is urging her strongly to take a long rest when the tournament is completed here and not play in the Wimbledon tournament. She is anxious, however, to defend her title at Wimbledon but will consult a Paris specialist Monday and abide by his decision.

Those who witnessed the match said it gave proof of her ill health. She lacked her usual speed on the courts, seldom coming up to the net.

Navy Divides at Nets.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 20.—In hard played and fairly skillful tennis matches here today the University of Pennsylvania and Naval Academy racket men each took two strings of singles and one of doubles.

BRITON DEFEATS YANKEE FOR COURT TENNIS TITLE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 20.—George F. Covey of England retained his title as world professional court tennis champion today by defeating Walter A. Kinsella of New York.

The players divided honors in today's two sets, but Covey had won three out of four sets in each of the two matches played earlier this week, thus bringing the score to seven sets for the champion and three for Kinsella.

D. C. RACKETERS SCORE HEAVILY IN RICHMOND

RICHMOND, Va., May 20.—Washington tennis players made a "grand slam" in the final events of the Old Dominion tournament today, winning in all four classes that were completed and having three of the four racketers in the mixed doubles, which will be finished tomorrow.

C. M. Charest, District champion, won the singles, defeating Ray Kunkel, Georgetown University captain, 3—6, 6—4, 6—4, 6—1. In the semi-finals, Charest beat Crawford of Baltimore, 6—4, 6—2, and Kunkel put out Hall of Roanoke, 6—4, 6—1.

Mrs. E. C. Ellis, District champion, won the women's singles, scoring at the expense of Miss Elizabeth Warren of this city, 6—2, 6—3, in a brilliant match.

Mrs. Ellis also won in the doubles, she and Miss Marywill Wakeford, also of Washington, defeating Miss Warren and Miss Yulle, 6—4, 6—3.

Col. Walt Johnson and Capt. A. Gore won the men's doubles, defeating Tom Mangan and Kunkel, rival Washingtonians, 6—2, 6—3. In the semi-finals, Johnson and Gore eliminated Bickel and Fleming, ranking local pair, 6—1, 6—0, while Kunkel and Mangan were winners over Goldsborough and Crawford, Baltimore combination, 6—3, 1—6, 8—6.

Miss Wakeford and Gore are in the final of the mixed doubles. They will meet Arthur Yencken of the Capital City and Miss Dunlop, a Virginian.

COLUMBIA RACKETERS TOP WOMAN'S LEAGUE

Columbia racketers are setting the pace in the Woman's Tennis League with 16 victories in 17 matches. Racketers, who have only been beaten once also but who have won only 14 times, are in second place.

MAY NOT GET TO FINAL IN WIMBLEDON TOURNEY

Sam Hardy, One of Leading Authorities of Game, Declares Molla or Mlle. Lenglen or Both Likely to Fail in Early Rounds.

BY W. H. HOTTEL.

FOLLOWERS of tennis who are looking forward with so much confidence to the certain defeat of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen of France by Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the American champion, in Europe next month, should not get too enthusiastic. It is true that Molla was too formidable for the temperamental French girl at Forest Hills L. I., last year, but even the most ardent supporters of Mrs. Mallory must realize that Suzanne was not herself in that historic failure.

From what Mlle. Lenglen has shown in her play in the so-called world hard-court championship events at Brussels, the French girl is very much back on her game. Any player who can win five matches in singles from strong players without yielding a game surely is playing real tennis. Then, too, prior to going to Brussels, Suzanne defeated Miss Eleanor Goss, No. 5 in the American woman's ranking, 6—0, 6—0, despite that the Yankee girl had pointed her game in an effort to make a great showing against the French player.

Then, too, according to Sam Hardy, one of America's leading tennis authorities, who played in the Chevy Chase Club tourney here recently, it is by no means a certainty that either Molla or Suzanne will be able to reach the final round at Wimbledon, the only tourney in which the rivals at present are slated to appear. Hardy, who spent six months in Europe, declares there are several woman players abroad who are liable to take the measure of either or both Mrs. Mallory and Mlle. Lenglen. He names Elizabeth Ryan, the California girl, who has been in Europe for several years, as one of them. Miss Ryan, it will be recalled, eliminated Mrs. Mallory at Wimbledon last year, later falling before Mlle. Lenglen.

Mrs. Mallory, indeed, will have to play better tennis than she did against Mrs. Marian Zinderstein at the White House recently if she is to succeed in Europe. Molla, in her play here showed that she was physically fit and could cover the full court in adept manner, but she was outpaced and outplaced to a marked degree by Mrs. Jessup. Molla, at her best, has no real service, while this is a strong-point of Mlle. Lenglen's games, and from accounts of the French girl's play at Brussels her shots were finding the side lines and base line with unerring consistency. If Molla reaches her goal it will have been a wonderful accomplishment. If she fails it is a cinch that she will offer no alibi.

Sees Aussies as Challengers.

Hardy, who saw most of the European racketers of note in action during his sojourn, is of the opinion that the Australian team will be the one to become the challenger of America this year. Spain, with Manuel Alonso and several other clever players, is regarded as the "dark horse." Hardy says Alonso is one of the coming players of the world.

Hardy had some heart-to-heart talks with British tennis officials in regard to calling the annual tourney at Wimbledon the world championship. He frankly told them that at best it was nothing more than their national title tournament and that they would stand better with America and other tennis-playing countries if they "got down to brass tacks."

He advised them that America never would support the action of the International Tennis Federation, which, in doling out title events prior to the war, gave England the grass court championship in perpetuity. He declared the tourney, to be real world championship, should rotate among the great tennis-playing nations.

Hardy said there was boundless interest in tennis abroad and that the countries over there, especially England, had reached the conclusion that the only way to "stay on the map" is in following America's plan of lending all the encouragement and support possible to the youthful players.

Bill Tilden, national champion, will make his first appearance since his reverses at the hands of Bill Johnston on the coast in a match today with Vincent Richards. They will battle at Larchmont Manor, N. Y. This match was to have been played last fall for the benefit of the American committee for devastated France but was prevented by bad weather. Tilden did not blame his two defeats by Johnston to the cement court. He admitted frankly that Johnston played the better tennis.

Johnston, by his two victories over Tilden and his decisive defeat of Richards, proved fully that he is strictly on his game. Johnston's ambition, and the only thing that will bring him east again this season is to gain permanent possession of the championship bowl, on which he, Tilden and R. Norris Williams each have two legs. Win or lose, this probably will be Johnston's final appearance in a national tennis tourney; that is, if he has to cross the continent to play. Had he taken the bowl in 1921 he would not have considered making the trip this year.

U. S. CHAMPION ON WAY TO SEEK NET LAURELS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory sailed for England today, intent on two things—the annexing of the tennis championship at Wimbledon and the defeat of Suzanne Lenglen, French racquet star.

Mrs. Mallory was supremely confident as she leaned over the rail of the Cedric on which she sailed. There was just a tinge of discolor about her right eye, the remains of what she frankly admitted was a "most wonderful black eye—pure and simple." She got it while serving in a match last Tuesday—a "back slap" of an overhead smash, she explained.

"That's past, however," said Mrs. Mallory. "I'm looking only to the future." I am going to Wimbledon to win that title. I came close to it last year, but I feel I'm at the top of my game now and I believe I can win it.

"Then I'm going to France. If I do not meet Mlle. Lenglen in England, I'll play her there. She beat me the last time I met her in Europe, and she may do so again. But if she does, she will have to play a lot better tennis than she did before."

With Mrs. Mallory was Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, another woman tennis star. Mrs. Mallory and Miss Sigourney will play doubles at Wimbledon, but Miss Sigourney said she might not play singles.

COLUMBIA U. RACKETERS WIN FROM CALIFORNIANS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Columbia University tennis team defeated University of Southern California today, Frank E. Anderson and Gerald Emerson taking the singles matches from Stanton Welch and Paul Greene by scores of 6—3, 7—5, 6—2 and 8—7, respectively. They also won the doubles, 6—3, 6—3.
