Lacrosse Clinic Begins At Swarthmore Tomorrow

One of the first "clinics" of its kind will be staged at Swarthmore College tomorrow afternoon when a lacrosse clinic will be held in the Field House under the direction of Avery Blake, lacrosse coach at the college. The meeting is scheduled for 2 p. m.

Blake issued a blanket invitation to anyone interested in lacrosse from either a competitive or spectator's angle to be present as the Field House offers almost unlimited facilities for such a demonstration.

Lacrosse has been played in the United States since the earliest times but has only recently been attracting a larger number of colleges into competition. The game combines the bodily-contact of football, the speed and dash of basketball, and supplies a thrill of its own.

Blake, who was named "All-American coach" for 1937, has assembled a trio of guest speakers who are rated "tops" in the sport. They are William F. Logan, former All-American and Olympic player and present coach at Princeton, the 1937 intercollegiate co-champs; C. Gardner Mallonee, captain of the 1928 Olympic team and defense coach at John Hopkins, and S. Atherton Middleton, coach at the University of Pennsylvania.

The clinic will consist of demonstrations of various maneuvers, rules discussions, and is designed to aid spectators in developing a greater appreciation of the game in addition to helping the players who will take part in improving their technique.

Eleven games are listed on the Swarthmore College schedule which has been released while another is pending. The opener will be played on Saturday, March 26, at Swarthmore with the Mt. Washington Club as the opposition. A game for April 2 with New Hampshire is pending. The rest of the schedule:
